

Five Ways to Avoid High Security Officer Turnover

Does this scenario sound familiar? You relied on your security services provider to hire the best staff and ensure everyone received the right training. But a handful of them have already quit and moved onto the next company, leaving your security at risk. A new stream of security officers are being hired and trained